THE CALGARY FRUIT CONFERENCE

Important Resolutions Passed at Representative Gathering of Fruit Growers, Marketing Companies and Government Officials Held Last Week at Alberta's Principal City.

Calgary, July 8.—Mayor Costello welcomed the delegates to the Fruit Growers' Conference, which opened yesterday morning to discuss ways and means for the betterment of marketing and selling conditions affecting British Columbia fruit on the prairies. The conference will conclude on Friday.

The attendance was smaller than expected, only about twenty-five people being present when the gathering was called to order.

Outside the opening address of welcome, the two addresses of interest were delivered by W. C. Ricardo, president of the B. C. Fruit Growers' Association and R. M. Winslow, British Columbia horticulturist.

The latter, in alluding to the small attendance from British Columbia, stated that this was the best season with the growers and that the situation in the fruit industry was very critical, so much so with many men in the business that they had not the price of a ticket to attend a convention at a distant point.

Mr. Winslow went into detail on the subject of the California citrus growers, especially in regard to transportation expenses, and declared that B. C. fruit growers' organizations had secured just as good rates and minimums, and an equal service from the Canadian railways. He would not say that lower rates might not be secured, but at the present time the rates were as fair as those on the American side.

The California people, having satisfied themselves of conditions in the transportation and production end, they were now turning their attention to the marketing end. The California and B. C. cases in this respect are quite similar. He quoted from an address of Mr. Powell, a California orange man, that the problem of distribution is a much more complicated one than that of production and transportation.

Mr. Powell found that the retailer got for every dollar spent by the consumer for California oranges 33 1/3 cents. The balance of the dollar went as follows:

Jobber ..... 8.2 per cent.
Fruit and refrigeration ..... 20.5 per cent.
Packing house cost ..... 7.4 per cent.
Picking and hauling to packer ..... 2.4 per cent.
Preparation for fruit in tree ..... 26.7 per cent.

The dollar ..... 100.00 per cent.
The citrus growers figure on depreciation of the orchard and interest on their investment," said Mr. Winslow, "while people here have mentioned this fact or figured on it." He pointed out that Montana formerly produced great quantities of crab apples, and now produces scarcely any.

Wide Jobbing Margin.
He cited Mr. Fowler again as saying that jobbers west of the Rockies and in Canada took a wide jobbing margin in any other part of the continent. In one city where the jobbers combined their margin was 22 per cent. He had been told by a California grower that the jobbers had combined in Canada to restrict the sales of citrus fruit.

Mr. Winslow quoted another California man urging jobbers to do more advertising. Nevertheless, it was concluded by the California grower that the jobbers taking 8.3 per cent. of the income, was not a vital though an important factor in the fruit distribution.

Abuses in the jobbing trade are not easily corrected because it has no government supervision, as in the banking business, and for this reason the jobber was under suspicion by the public. The jobbers should have a view to handling greater quantities, not necessarily to reduce profits, but to properly perform their functions in the distribution of fruit.

Mr. Winslow cited a particular instance of abuse in the jobbing trade as follows on Jonathan apples sold at $1.50 a box:

Retailer ..... 25
Jobber ..... 25
Broker ..... 62 1/2
Freight and refrigeration ..... 28
Broker and central selling agency ..... 36
Local packings ..... 36
Picking and hauling ..... 36
Fruit and trees ..... 17

"I have tried to show," added Mr. Winslow, "that there is little or no possibility of lowering prices owing to present prices caused by the demoralized condition of markets in the northwestern states due to increased orchards and productions. Once the growers in the States properly organize distribution in Washington and the northwest states you will then pay a fair price for the fruit and it will offer a fair opportunity to the B. C. grower to sell his fruit at a profit. The situation will correct itself.

"Then prices will be immediately regulated by the production of B. C. fruit and if you will stand by the B. C. growers, if you help them so that they do not decrease their orchards, you will get fruit at a reasonable price eventually and a fair price to the growers.

Mr. Winslow was inclined to think that the present demoralization of the northwest American market would last for four or five years yet. If, during that time, the B. C. growers were forced out of business, then when the American market finally was regulated, Canadians in the prairie provinces would be at the mercy of American prices, having no competition from British Columbia.

Resolutions.
Calgary, July 9.—The afternoon session of the British Columbia and Alberta Fruit convention yesterday in the Board of Trade hall was devoted largely to the consideration of the list of resolutions sent up by the resolutions committee, and among those adopted was a resolution that the government to appoint a special commission of enquiry into the state of the fruit trade. It is anticipated that such a commission, if appointed, will enquire into the necessity for a revision of the tariff on American fruit which is now being dumped wholesale into the provinces from the northwestern states.

Government Market.
One of the resolutions which aroused much discussion, and was finally passed, was that of the morning's session, was that of S. J. Poe, of the Vernon Fruit Co., providing for a government supervised wholesale market in Calgary on a 10 per cent. commission basis. Elimination of dray and cartage charges, credit accounts and to a large extent of storage charges, would be accomplished by such a market, Mr. Poe argued.

The resolution offered by W. G. Hunt that representations be made to express companies to reduce their minimum weight on cars for small fruits from 20,000 to 15,000 pounds, or one pound with safety to the fruit, was adopted after considerable discussion. The growers' representatives are evidently of the opinion that express rates, with some minor exceptions, as that referred to above, are fairly satisfactory at the present time.

Trading of Fruit.
Another important resolution adopted by the convention, on the approval of the committee on resolutions, was that offered by Messrs. Poe and Sam Savage providing for the packing of higher cost of material and labor in B. C.

The growers' representatives are evidently of the opinion that express rates, with some minor exceptions, as that referred to above, are fairly satisfactory at the present time.

Trading of Fruit.
Another important resolution adopted by the convention, on the approval of the committee on resolutions, was that offered by Messrs. Poe and Sam Savage providing for the packing of only one grade of the best variety of apples, all others to be put up in orchard run, culls cut out, in slatted boxes. Of course, these resolutions are not binding on the growers, but only a recommendation to the various British Columbia growers' associations.

Among the resolutions which the convention did not get around to, and which will be taken up at today's session, are the following: Extension of the government parcel post privilege to the shipping of soft fruits direct from the orchard to the homes. The object of this proposal is to widen the market for tree-ripened fruits which, at the present time, cannot be consigned by express through brokers and commission-men.

Standardizing Packages.
Asking the Dominion Government to standardize strawberry packages to one pint and one quart hallowcks, or boxes, 24 hallowcks to the crate; also establishing a minimum number of packages for small fruits; also, that the minimum weight of fruit in each package should be maintained.

Restoring the fruitgrowers and distributors to reorganize their associations with a view to reducing market rates.

That the British Columbia districts have a special competent representative at each marketing centre to see that the market is maintained in normal condition and govern and control distribution.

On Education.
The resolution of J. Johnson, of Nelson, will also be taken up at today's session calling on the government to abolish the present system of education as it furnished too many graduates who seek to make a living "between the producer and the consumer"; that the government take steps to encourage technical education and to discourage free education beyond the sixth standard of the public schools, and in place provide competitive scholarships so that those of sufficient mental ability may have every financial facility for completing their technical education, while those without such ability shall not be brought up to a system of "technical idleness."

The Tariff Comes In.
In the discussion over the question of asking for a Dominion commission of inquiry into the fruit trade, it developed that the original resolution submitted by the committee also asked the government to increase tariff duties on American fruit. The committee eliminated this, considering it was a subject that might well be reported on by the government commission if appointed.

It is while manufactured articles imported from the States and paying a duty cannot be "dumped" into Canada because of the operation of the tariff anti-dumping clause, American fruit escapes this prohibition through the peculiar and perishable nature of fruit shipments. As is well known, the anti-dumping clause applying to manufactured articles prevents the "dumping into Canada of the surplusage of manufactured articles from the States at prices below cost. It is comparatively easy to enforce this clause owing to the fact that staple manufactured articles are not perishable and of the same intrinsic value months or years after they are manufactured.

Fruit, on the other hand, deteriorates so rapidly that it would be difficult to draw the line between the various grades sufficiently to make an anti-dumping clause operative since the difference in price between fresh high grade fruit and the same grade of fruit declared to be slightly deteriorated is very great.

Want Higher Duty.
The growers, naturally, are strongly in favor of higher duties, but this is opposed by the dealers and representatives of consumers. At a dinner at the Palliser Hotel last evening, J. B. Musselman, representing the Saskatchewan department of agriculture, voiced the objections of those opposed to an increased duty, declaring it would antagonize ninety per cent. of the consumers in the prairie provinces. He urged elimination of the middlemen and declared the 1200 local farmers' organizations in Saskatchewan and their purchase and distribution of Ontario apples last fall.

Savage Takes Issue.
In this connection, there was an interesting passage at arms yesterday between R. M. Winslow of the British Columbia board of agriculture and Sam Savage, a wholesaler of Calgary. Mr. Savage took issue with Mr. Winslow's address, as given yesterday in The Herald, that the chief cause of the elimination of the British Columbia fruit from the prairie markets was not the dumping of American surplusage but other items such as importation of Ontario fruits, especially in regard to Saskatchewan. Mr. Savage argued that as Mr. Winslow had said the British Columbia fruit was not adequate to the task of supplying all the prairie provinces with fruit, that the importation of other fruits was only natural. He asked Mr. Winslow why no British Columbia fruit was sold in Saskatchewan and the other provinces, that it was due to the additional expenses resulting from competition impossible with fruits from nearer orchards. Mr. Savage then pointed out that the fruit growers had said they were satisfied with present export rates in the prairie provinces and that they thought they were being given a fair show with other centres in this respect. Mr. Winslow replied, however, that even though the rates were fair enough, the additional rate to cover the cost of naturally inferior quality orchards in their competition with the western fruits.

Interesting Figures.
An interesting array of figures was presented also at the afternoon session yesterday by Mr. Winslow of the Board of Trade corroborating the figures given at the morning session by Mr. Winslow with regard to the large portion of the price of fruit which goes to the middleman. He showed that a box of fruit for which the producer received 17 cents net was sold to the retailer in Vancouver for $1.15 per box and retailed to the consumer at $1.35. He declared that in the northwestern states, the producer received from 10 to 15 per cent. more while the consumer actually paid less. However, it cost $1 to ship 17 cents' worth of fruit from Okanagan to the jobber in Regina. He intimated that there was a combine among the fruit dealers, and contended that, with proper methods of distribution, the consumption of fruit would be six times what it is.

Freeze Takes Exception.
Alderman S. G. Freeze, a local fruit wholesaler and retailer, took exception to some of the arguments, citing instances where he had bought consignments direct from the producer at prices varying from $1.05 to $1.25 which had netted the producer from 64 to 79 cents. The general opinion, however, was that such transactions were exceptional and that the intermediate services of brokers and jobbers generally were necessary.

Dominion Fruit Commissioner D. Johnson also supported the remarks of Mr. Winslow at the previous session that the British Columbia growers were hampered by United States fruit dumped on the prairie markets frequently at less than cost, which made it possible for enterprising brokerage firms to drive a hard bargain and double their rates.

Closing Session.
Calgary, July 10.—With the singing of "God Save the King," the final session of the Alberta and British Columbia fruit convention was brought to a close on Friday in the Board of Trade hall. The principal business of this morning was a long and, at times, heated discussion over a resolution demanding joint express rates from the three express companies for fruit transportation, and also asking for a reduction in the minimum weight of carload lots of small fruits from 20,000 to 15,000 pounds.

This latter portion of the resolution was practically passed Thursday, wherefore the opposition that developed to it Friday was the occasion of some heated remarks. Mr. B. M. Winslow, a member of the British Columbia board of agriculture, and also a representative of the executive committee of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association, opposed the passage of the resolution on the ground that the later organization had been working on the subject for a number of months.

Wanted It Changed.
He wanted the resolution changed, at least, so that it would demand that cars of sufficient capacity be furnished so that 20,000 pounds minimum weight of fruit might be safely carried, and,

In lieu of this, that the minimum weight be reduced from 20,000 to 15,000 pounds. Mr. Helme, of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' executive, stood behind Mr. Winslow in this matter, arguing that it was a subject which required much thought by experts and should not be passed on hastily by the convention. The executive had already taken up the subject with the Dominion Express Company, and they had agreed to provide larger cars so that the minimum weight of 20,000 pounds might safely be carried, but, owing to the war crisis, had not built these cars this year.

Must Pay for 20,000.
To understand the subject, it should be said that the minimum weight of 20,000 pounds means that the shipper can only get the special rate for a carload lot when the carload is not less than 20,000 pounds. If it is less than this, the shipper pays for 20,000 pounds just the same. The shippers claim that the present cars cannot be loaded to their full capacity of 20,000 pounds as a certain air space has to be left at the top, else the top layers of fruit will spoil.

Mr. Helme said the company had made one concession in that they had arranged for opening and airing the cars at different points which mitigated the danger of spoiling somewhat, but that they had said emphatically that $400 was the very least rate that would be allowed on any kind of a carload shipment over the mountains. Hence, neither he nor Mr. Winslow thought there was much use in putting up the resolution to them demanding a minimum weight of 15,000 pounds.

Savage Takes Umbrage.
Sam Savage, local wholesaler, took umbrage at these remarks, intimating that there seemed to be some evidence of an attempt to cater to the express companies. He declared that as a jobber, he would prefer getting the shipments in carloads of 30,000 pounds, but that he wanted to see the small grower get the chance to ship in carload lots as well as the bigger growers and associations, and he also wanted a reduction in rates to widen the market in the prairie provinces.

The resolution demanding the reduction to 15,000 pounds finally was carried by a majority vote.

Mrs. Newhall Speaks.

Mrs. T. P. Newhall was the first speaker at the morning session of the fruit convention today. Speaking for the Consumers' League, she declared that they considered the Growers' Association methods of dealing through so many middlemen were wasteful for the consumer and discouraging to the small grower. Despite the fact that growers present had thought the system all right, except the charges were a little too high. Mrs. Newhall argued for Mr. Fee's resolution for the establishment of government wholesale fruit markets in the various prairie cities with a 10 per cent. commission charge for handling the fruit.

This resolution was laid on the table yesterday. The speaker cited the case of the establishment of the Calgary public market in the face of determined opposition, with the result that prices of market produce had been reduced to the consumer, while farmers and truck gardeners got more for their produce and sold more of it.

This was the solution of the fruit question, she argued, and not a higher tariff. The audience heard Mrs. Newhall through and gave her applause but took no action on the resolution.

A Supposition Case.
Among other things in her address Mrs. Newhall cited the case of some suppositious merchants who would rather sell two hats for $12 each than four hats costing $6 each. This, she declared, was precisely the position of the middleman, brokers, dealers and jobbers who were getting the lion's share of the fruit profits. A higher tariff on U. S. fruit, as some growers proposed, declared Mrs. Newhall, would cut off the consumer from the only avenue of escape from the middleman's clutches. The growers in clinging to the old system were like a drowning man crying: "Save me; save me, but take me only by the scruff of the neck, the orthodox way, and, don't save me any other way."

J. Johnson, of Nelson, the next speaker, took as his text the resolution asking the government to abolish free education after the sixth grade and establish technical school course.

The People in The Okanagan
Want to Spend Money

MONEY is for use, not for hoarding. Most of us want what money will buy more than money, so we are always spending our money. Also, most of us do not make enough money to keep or hoard it—we must spend it on necessities.

Much Vernon money is spent with firms outside of this community—with the big city mail-order houses; money that ought to be spent at home.

More money would be spent in Vernon if more of our merchants would advertise, and if those who do advertise would advertise more.

To the People in and about Vernon

Spend your money in the city. Sending money out of this community makes the community poorer for you and everybody else. Building up outside businesses won't help you any.

That Protect in 5 Ways Against Trouble

Fine rubber, staunch fabric and good workmanship are not enough to protect a tire from trouble. Many makes besides Goodyears have these things. But Goodyear Tires alone are fortified in five costly ways against the worst attacks that a tire can suffer. And they have proved it best in countless tests when run with rival tires on opposite wheels.

For your own sake please note these five exclusive defenses—

Fortified Against Rim-Cutting by our No-Rim-Cut feature, that best combats rim cuts. Millions of tires have proved that.

Fortified Against Blowouts by our "Air-All" cure, that saves so many blowouts due, in rival tires, to wrinkled fabric.

Fortified Against Loose Treads by our Rubber Rivets, formed in each tire. They reduce loose tread risk 60 per cent.

Fortified Against Insecurity by our 156 piano wires vulcanized in each tire base. They make the tire secure.

WATER NOTICE.

TAKE NOTICE that George Ernest Anderson, whose address is Swan Lake, Vernon, B. C., will apply for a license for the storage of twenty acres of water out of a small lake situated about 165 yards west from the eastern boundary of the S. W. 1/4 of Sec. 10, T. 8, R. 10, O. 10, O. 10, O. 10.

The Storage-shed will be located at the end of said lake. The capacity of the reservoir to be created is about 1,000 gallons. It will flow about four acres of land. The water will be diverted from the stream at a point at the end of lake and will be used for irrigation purposes upon the land described as Lots 14 and 15, Register Plate 29 in a subdivision of the S. W. 1/4 of Sec. 10, T. 8, R. 10, O. 10, O. 10, O. 10.

Notice is hereby given that to be entitled to a right to take and use water as set forth in the application, the applicant must file a notice in the office of the Water Recorder at Vernon, B. C., on or before the 15th day of June, 1915.

Any objection to the application may be filed with the Water Recorder on or before the 15th day of June, 1915. The application will be filed in the office of the Water Recorder at Vernon, B. C., on or before the 15th day of June, 1915.

GEORGE E. ANDERSON, Applicant.
The date of the first publication of notice is June 14, 1915.

NOTICE OF CANCELLATION OF RESERVE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the reserve existing on certain lands on the west side of Okanagan Lake, about 14 miles north of Nibinn, formerly owned by Timber-Henderson, Ltd., and 3283, by reason of a notice published in the British Columbia Gazette on the 27th of December, 1902, is hereby cancelled. The said lands will be subject to entry by pre-emption at the office of the Commissioner of Lands, at Vernon, on Monday, the 22nd of August, 1915, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. No pre-emption Record may be made on the said lands on a greater area than 160 acres.

MACHINE GUNS.

With splendid patriotism and liberality the people of Vancouver have subscribed enough money to purchase forty or more machine guns. These guns cost $1,000 each and many of the business men of the coast cities have each become responsible for the cost of one of these weapons. The Government furnishes four machine guns to a battalion and it is proposed to augment this provision by twelve additional guns from private sources, thus the 47th now in the mobilization camp here will go forward with a complement of sixteen guns, and other coast battalions now across the sea will be equipped in a similar manner. Isn't it time that Vernon and other Okanagan towns did something in this direction?

From Rotterdam comes a press despatch which says that the Germans have now 100,000 machine guns on the various fronts, and that they are rapidly arming all infantry units with them. The rifle is being displaced by machine gun squads. For every forty or fifty men in the trenches there is a machine gun capable of shooting 800 bullets a minute, or twice the rate of rifle fire by the whole forty or fifty. In an interview with a Saxon officer taken prisoner a London Mail writer obtained information respecting the ferro-concrete forts the Germans erect in their trench systems for machine gun squads. "When we want to move a hundred men to another part of the line we just establish five or six machine guns in their place," said this officer. "A caretaker and his wife could defend some of our trenches." The tremendous defensive strength of the Germans is due in no little part to the machine gun equipment with which the troops have been so lavishly armed.

No better means of helping our men at the front or those who are preparing for service can be devised than by furnishing them with plenty of these guns. They are in a very true sense of the word life-preservers to those who have them, and the more weapons of this description possessed by our men, the more men will return to us from the terrible fields of carnage when the war is over.

We ask our readers to think this over and see if we as a community cannot do even better than we have done in the past to assist the gallant men who have so freely and nobly offered their lives for the Empire in this tremendous crisis. Perhaps we have already given freely to other towns, but what are donations in cash compared to the supreme sacrifice which our soldiers have laid upon the altar? Every man who now enlists knows well that he has placed his life in the balance. He knows that 10,000 Canadians are now numbered among the killed and wounded, and he has every right to expect that those of us who remain at home shall do our utmost to render him the best assistance possible in his heroic task. As long as our case and comfort are practically unimpaired we should be ashamed to refuse an appeal of this kind. Perhaps there may be few or none here able to bear the expense of a gun, though this is by no means certain; but surely there are few who could not give something.

In the Second Mounted Rifles, now in England, are hundreds of Okanagan men. We all want to see these men return to us in large numbers as possible when the great struggle reaches an end, and probably no better means can be taken to insure this result than by contributing to the strength of the battalion by many machine guns as we can provide. Then there is the 54th Kootenay Battalion composed of men from the interior, and including not a few from this district in its ranks. Can't we help them in the same way?

The best way to speedily end the war is to do our utmost to crush as soon as possible the terrible foe against whom we are pitted in this desperate conflict. It must have been pressed home to all of us by this time that to win we will have to exert every ounce of our strength and energy. We have come to realize as we did not in the first months of the war that a terrific task yet lies ahead of us. We are fighting as a nation for our very existence. We are struggling to maintain our liberty, our honor, our place as free and independent people, and while we are swaying in the death grip with a relentless and devilish foe we cannot afford to stay our hand until we have done our best, and that best has not yet been reached by any of us who are not in the fighting line.

Let us do something, and do it quickly! The authorities at Ottawa will receive contributions for the purpose of purchasing machine guns, and will procure the weapons and forward them to any particular regiment named by those who supply the funds. Vernon should not lag behind in this work. We hope to see a move in this direction made without delay.

A TIMELY PUBLICATION.

The News is in receipt of a very attractive little pamphlet entitled "British Columbia Fruit." It is issued by the B. C. Fruit Growers' Association, and has been compiled by Mr. J. Forsythe Smith, the versatile and efficient Market Commissioner to whom fruit growers of this province already owe a big debt of gratitude for his invaluable services in looking after their interests in the Prairie Provinces.

The booklet is well illustrated, and in its 78 pages may be found no less than 225 tried and tested recipes for preparing in various ways apples, peaches, plums, berries and other fruits. It also gives valuable advice as to the different varieties of apples and when and how to use them to the best advantage. It is dedicated to patriotic housewives of Western Canada, in the full confidence that they will give British Columbia fruit that practical preference which a Grown-in-Canada product of established merit deserves, that they will ask it persistently, and spare no effort to impress their dealers with the reality of their demand for a Canadian-grown article.

This, it will be conceded by all, who peruse it, as a really meritorious publication and should meet at once with popular favor. It may be obtained free upon application to the Horticultural Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Victoria. As an instance of the value of the recipes we may quote part of an article which should be of service to many who are deterred from preserving fruit this season owing to the high price of sugar. The pamphlet, after referring to this drawback, points out that all fruits contain more or less acid, and so all mixtures of fruit and sugar tend to lose some of their sweetness in the process of cooking. On this account, it is much more economical to add the sugar after the fruit is cooked, while this is also the only way in which the full characteristic flavor of the fruit can be retained. Another point worthy of consideration is that before fruit so preserved has to be normal again. There is nothing to lose, therefore, a gain in the quality of the preserves, and a probability of considerable saving in trying "out" the sugarless method. The following simple instructions are then given: "To put up fruits without sugar, simply prepare them in the ordinary way, see that the jars are perfectly clean, thoroughly scalded with boiling water, filled to the top and left in them a considerable time; boil the rubbers and covers, and see that the rubbers are soft and free from grooves or cracks; place the fruit in the jars, fill with cold water, place them in a boiler filled with cold water, heat till the boiling point is reached. Large fruits, such as peaches, pears, plums, cherries and the like should be 20 to 25 minutes boiling. A board should be placed in the bottom of the boiler to keep the jars from the direct heat of the stove. Fruit thus prepared will be found excellent for pies, delicious for eating with cream, and, generally, superior to the sugar-syrup preserves. In properly airtight jars they will also keep as long."

We should think that there will be a big demand for the pamphlet as soon as its merits become known, and the Department is to be congratulated upon having added to its long list of useful publications one that is calculated to stimulate the sale of British Columbia fruit in such an effective manner.

NO PREMATURE PEACE.

The movement on the part of the German Socialists to end the war will not be taken seriously either outside their own country or within it. They have come out with a demand for the cessation of hostilities, and they urge their comrades in other countries to work towards that end. But there are two very obvious reasons why they will find considerable difficulty in doing this. First, they are starting in eleven months' time; they should have started long ago. Then there is the 54th the great assassin was secretly aiming for his work of death. Second, they should see the futility of crying peace when there can be no peace; when there can be no thought of ending the conflict while Prussian madness reigns supreme in central Europe.

While the Kaiser was walking arm in arm with the other nations in the pathways of peace, he was making most elaborate preparations to stab them in the back. His spies were violating the rules of friendship and hospitality in their reckless desire to steal the secrets of other armies and other navies, and careful plans were being made to invade and crush a small and unoffending country the neutrality of which Germany was pledged to respect. It is not to be believed that the German Socialists were ignorant of all this. They could not have been unaware of the steady and thorough planning that was going on. Yet they kept the secret as well as the Prussian officers, and while the world stood aghast at the boldness of Germany in violating all the rules of civilization they gave no word to indicate that they were opposed to the tactics of the Huns, nor did they speak of peace while time remained for a peaceful solution of the manufactured grievance which the German Government seized upon to plunge the nations into war. Now the results of their failure are not lessened by their belated attempt to bring order out of chaos and end the slaughter ruthlessly precipitated by German selfishness. As one writer puts it:

"The great significance of all this lies in the fact that these Social Democrats do not recognize even now the truth about the responsibility of the policy which they condemn for actually bringing on this war and prosecuting it for the very objects which they also condemn. They apparently accept the pretense so assiduously cultivated that it was forced upon Germany by its enemies. They are awakening to the fact that it may be directed to conquest and domination, but cannot believe that it was precipitated deliberately for that purpose and had been prepared for with that in view. Therein they evidently represent the great mass of the German people who, they say, want peace and friendly relations with other countries. From this state of uneasy dreaming they are liable to awake to the daylight of truth. Then it may be possible to have a peace brought about which will be as much for the benefit of the German people as of the rest of the world, but it must be the death of that century-old Prussian militarism and oppression."

It is probable that later on the influence of the Socialists in Germany will have considerable weight with the government, but it is not apparent that the time is very near. Meantime, they will find that Great Britain and those nations fighting with her are not to be turned back. Too much is at stake. For the Allies the most dangerous period of the war is nearing an end; for it is only after a year's struggle against a highly equipped and well-trained enemy that they are coming to a point where they can manufacture the necessary munitions in the quantities that are needed. From now on, if the young men of the Empire respond to the call sent out to them and those who are compelled to stay at home do their duty, Germany will be gradually and surely brought to her knees. And peace will come when the Allies are in a position to dictate the terms.

DAUGHTERS OF EMPIRE.

We are glad to know that the Chapter of the Daughters of Empire recently organized here is receiving a large membership, and is meeting with much encouragement in its work. Referring to this society, which was started in Montreal during the time of the Boer War, and now has chapters in nearly every Canadian city, a contemporary says: "This organization, which was formed more for sentimental reasons than anything else, has developed into an exceedingly practical and useful institution. We do not wish to be misunderstood when we speak of the sentimental reasons, which prompted its formation. To our way of thinking, sentiment is the only national tie that is enduring and that grows stronger the greater the strain that is put upon it. The daughters of the Empire made a splendid beginning when they devoted so much effort to inculcating in the minds of the youth of Canada an appreciation of the higher patriotism that springs from a knowledge of what the Empire stands for. "When the war came there arose unexpected tasks that none but women could adequately perform; the Daughters of the Empire took up their share of the burden, and admirably have they performed it. We recall what Napoleon said of the mothers of France. The women are the real guardians of patriotism. It is they who instill into the minds of children a full appreciation of what their country has a right to expect of them. But the organization of which we are speaking has done more than fan the fires of patriotism; it has shown that women have their part to do. In the days of chivalry women sent their husbands, sons and lovers out to battle and waited in patience at home for what fate might bring. Today they send them forth, and take on heavy burdens, which are lightened by the knowledge that they are doing their loved ones and their country a service that cannot be measured. Our women are showing themselves worthy of the men who have won imperishable renown in the battle for freedom.

A COMMISSION ON PRODUCTION.

In Canada today there is very sober comprehension of the fact that this country is now well into the era of production rather than of constuction, and that if we are to bring about a quick return of the prosperity of our money-borrowing period of building we must very greatly enlarge our agricultural and industrial output. The "Patriotism and Production" campaign was born of that conviction. But the "Patriotism and Production" propaganda, valuable as it was as a stimulant to preparations for this year's crop, covered an infinitesimal part of the economic ground affected by general enlargement of production. The need is for a national study of all the factors, including those of finance, markets, transportation, co-operation, settlement, immigration, and farm improvement, and the formulation of an energetic national policy making for rapid progress in all.

The Dominion Government, says the Mail and Empire, has been fully aware of the necessity for vigorous and broad handling of the matter. The requirements of national finance alone have made it abundantly clear that Canada is going to need all the wealth which she can produce. The heavy costs of the war will have to be met. The tremendous interest charges upon our borrowings from Britain will have to be paid, not out of more borrowings, but out of our national earnings. Moreover, we must rebuild our internal prosperity out of our production. Instead of receiving $200,000,000, or more from Britain yearly to spend in construction and expansion, we must produce that amount extra if we would restore former business liveliness. These are large and serious problems, and must be faced manfully. The Dominion Government is doing its part by arranging for the appointment of a commission to study exhaustively the whole wide problem, with the intention of proceeding to put into practice as many of the recommendations as may be deemed practicable under the circumstances. The new commission will take up the question of better returns to producers; of proper instruction and demonstration in agriculture; of increasing cultivated acreage; of permanent agricultural immigration; of co-operation among producers; of cheaper and better transportation, particularly that outside Canadian boundaries, and many other such matters. As Canada must be prepared for perhaps a ten-year period of production exclusively, the foundations for rapid improvement and progress must be laid well.

In Canada there has sometimes been far too much disposition to put responsibility for economic defects down to Government short-sightedness. The intensity of party contentions inclines one side to give a Government credit for all economic progress, and the other to condemn the Government for all the failures. The truth is that while legislation has, indeed, a most material effect upon the condition of production and commerce generally, and many economic defects are remediable in part through it, most depends upon the people themselves. The acreage under crop this year is 2,000,000 acres larger than before, but that enlargement was not the fruit of tariff revision or other alteration of the economic structure. It was due to the energy of the producers. No Government can of itself build up production and prosperity. These are the fruit, chiefly, of thrift, industry and energy by the mass of workers themselves. The new Dominion commission may be trusted to give the right lead, and Canada will undoubtedly respond magnificently.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S CONTRIBUTION.

Statistics show that so far British Columbia has contributed 10,442 men for service at the front, says the News-Advertiser. This figure deals exclusively with those who have enlisted in the battalions raised by the Militia Department and does not include the hundreds of reservists who have rejoined the British Army and the hundreds of others who have left here of their own volition and entered service in the United Kingdom. This province has done admirably, perhaps better in proportion than anywhere else in the Dominion, but in self-congratulations on this evidence of patriotism it must not be forgotten that the demand for more men is becoming greater.

The organization for enlistment which was somewhat hampered at first, because it was never anticipated that such a large expeditionary force would be required, is now working smoothly and more and more every day will be capable of absorbing greater numbers. The latest call was for 35,000, of whom at least three battalions will be raised in this province. Another call for 50,000 more is anticipated in the early autumn. In other words British Columbia alone will be expected to supply, within the next six months, nearly as many men as were recruited here in the past eleven months. The men are available. Our population is approximately 400,000, but from this figure must be subtracted a large number of Orientals and other foreigners. Possibly a fair estimate of the number of men of military age in British Columbia, eligible for service, would be between 45,000 and 50,000, and of these the majority are single. It is well to consider questions such as these at a time when the drain on our manhood is so severe. The patriotism of the West is by no means exhausted. It will be a splendid record in the pages of history if it can be said, after Germany is beaten, that we gave voluntarily of our best and did our duty to the uttermost.

TOBACCO FOR SOLDIERS.

The Red Cross has in recent circulars renewed the appeal for tobacco for the Canadian soldiers at the front. Tobacco in this, it is pointed out, and cigarettes are especially welcome. Tobacco in packages, a large number of which have reached the head office of the Canadian Red Cross Society in Toronto, is not very welcome, as it soon becomes dried up and almost unfit for use by the time it arrives at the front. The Red Cross officials have no doubt about the importance of tobacco at the front in the present crisis. The circular letter says:

"Even those who oppose its use as a matter of principle will admit this. Tobacco has played its part in every war, from Waterloo to the Balkans. It is playing a tremendous part in this, the greatest war in history. Tobacco is a solace and has won and lost battles. It is stated that smokers are far more immune than non-smokers to 'occipital cramps' and other neurasthenic ailments caused by the terrible ordeal of shell fire.

"Nothing is better than tobacco to relieve the necessary tedium of convalescence, when the soldier, too weak as yet for any active physical employment, finds the time hang heavy on his hands. Further, no greater act of charity could be performed than the sending of tobacco to prisoners whose life at the best can scarcely be considered one of pleasure. In short, those who know anything about men under nervous tension, know that tobacco is even more of a necessity than food. It is to be hoped that the public will think generously of this matter."

RELATED RECOGNITION.

Nothing more remarkable has ever occurred in Canadian journalism than the tribute of the Ottawa Free Press to the worth, ability and enterprise of Gen. Sam Hughes. This Liberal paper admits that people thought him insane, and that it has itself poked fun at him. Yet it says, four weeks after the outbreak of war General Hughes took the steps in Canada that are now being taken in Britain in regard to war munitions. By putting general Bertram in charge of a shell committee, Canada, which was then producing 75 shells a day, is now producing nearly 50,000 a day. Two hundred and forty-seven factories are working on them and 650,000 have already been shipped. Of General Hughes and General Bertram the Free Press says: "It seems now as though there are in Canada today two men whose life-training has been such as to prepare them for the present call of the Empire."

O'DONOVAN ROSSA

Passing of This Turbulent Agitator Removes Last of the Old Fenian Guard.

With the death of O'Donovan Rossa, one of the last of the Fenian old guards passes to his rest. He died on Staten Island in an institution where he had lived for some years. It may be that to the last his hatred of England burned fiercely, but he knew that there was no longer any chance of his being able to attract attention simply because he hated England. A few years ago he visited Ireland, and came back greatly disappointed. "Ireland is going to the bad," he said. He had no confidence in the Parliamentary system, and for home rule, and considered it a mockery and his followers better than molly-coddles. "Sure, it's not blarney and soft soap that makes the English listen," he said. "It's dynamite and hot steel and danger that makes them sit up and take notice." So he was called "Dynamite Rossa," and was proud of the title. No words were more frequently upon his lips than those of John Mitchell, the grandfather of the present Mayor of New York. "If I could crank the fires of hell, I'd hurl them into the face of my country's enemy."

A Believer in Dynamite. To Rossa his country was always Ireland, though he had lived a long time in the United States and Ireland's enemy was England. What the old Fenian thought when he saw Richmond touring the country urging Ulstermen to rise to fight Germany, and of such exploits as that of Michael O'Leary, nobody knows. Doubtless he was not pleased. Nor could the passage of the Home Rule Bill give him much satisfaction, since he was a consistent advocate of dynamite, and had presided upon a hundred platforms that only by a policy of terror could Ireland gain her rights. He was disappointed when he visited Ireland and many years ago to find that the Irish people were thriving quite as much as the English people, and to see so many of them in possession of their own land. He was a member of the British Government. On only one occasion was he known to show any signs of relenting toward his country's oppressor. He said that if he and seven other Fenians were put in a ferryboat and ordered to cross a river, he would jump a firebomb and after a moment's thought he added: "I might even jump in after her."

In the Days of the Fenians. The bitterness that distinguished Rossa and the little band of Fenians of his generation is difficult to understand nowadays, but it was held some thirty years ago of exaltation and fanaticism. Jeremiah O'Donovan was born in 1823 in the County Cork, and when he was thirty years old the family was expelled. His father died soon afterward, and the mother took the other children and emigrated to Philadelphia, Jeremiah remaining at home in charge of a kinsman who had a shop in Skilbreen. He worked in the shop and attended school, and eventually came into possession of a shop of his own. According to his own account, it was the funeral of Jilleen Andy that made a Fenian of him. The woman was laid in her grave without a coffin and with a stone for a pillow.

The Irish Rebel.

When he embarked upon his career of active Fenianism he assumed the name of Rossa, from the ancient barony in which he had been born. Shortly afterwards he was convicted of inciting to rebellion, and was sentenced to three months' imprisonment. In 1863 he paid a visit to the United States, conferred with leading Irishmen, and was supplied by them with funds for a rebellion. On his return to Ireland he established a newspaper, called "The Irish People," and when he was not writing bitter indictments of British rule in Ireland he was organizing and drilling companies of young Fenians. His paper survived for nearly two years, by which time the authorities had all the information they needed, and they raided the premises, and once more Rossa found himself in the prisoner's dock. He was convicted of treason, and sentenced to imprisonment for life, the sentence being afterwards commuted to six years' confinement. It is thought that for this demerit Rossa gave personal credit to Queen Victoria, and that it was in this account that he made the memorable remark about the ferryboat.

An Indomitable Patriot.

While serving his sentence Rossa was transferred from one English prison to another, the object being, as he always alleged, to break his spirit. If this was the purpose, it failed, for nothing could break the heart of this indomitable old Fenian. On one occasion, when he was summoned to apologize to the Governor of a prison for not attending him, he threw a brick at the official's head. When he was released he was a shoddy for twenty years, and went to New York, where he established another newspaper. In 1885 an attempt to murder him was made by an Englishman, who was afterwards adjudged insane, but Rossa declared that she was in the employ of the British Government. He insisted that he should be buried in Ireland, but his family, fearing German subversion, will not attempt to comply immediately with his dying instructions, and his last wish can only be complied with when the enemy of his country's "enemy" is driven from the seas.

petitive scholarships for the following grades. Those who did not have the mental ability for higher education would not then be brought up in the spirit of continually passing labor.
Mr. Johnson, however, gave high praise to such institutions as agricultural schools and colleges, mentioning particularly the Alberta Agricultural College as an example of the best.

NARAMATA
Mrs. F. C. Manchester gave a pleasant "At Home" for Mrs. M. D. Manchester on last Wednesday afternoon.
The Misses Lois Wells, Gladys and
Kathleen Robinson assisted the hostess during the afternoon.
The Naramata Women's Institute
has changed its hour of meeting from
three o'clock to 7:30 p. m. during the summer months. After the regular business of the institute had been finished Mrs. Salting gave an interesting paper on the "Canning of Vegetables."
Miss Lois Wells read the current events
for the month and Mrs. D. Walter
played a piano solo.
The large bright breakfast room at Hotel Naramata was the scene of a much cutting, tearing and sewing of
old linen on Saturday afternoon, about 25 ladies coming out to help in this
much needed work. Mrs. H. A. Solly, Summerland, who is at the head of the Red Cross work there was kind enough to come across and explain all
the details of the work to be done,
which was much appreciated by the ladies. During the afternoon the matter of forming a league here was taken up and it was decided to join with the Summerland organization, the whole to
be called the Summerland-Naramata
Red Cross Ambulance League. Miss
Gwen Robinson was elected secretary-
treasurer of the Naramata branch.
The ladies will meet twice a month at
the club house on Saturday afternoons.
Mrs. Robinson and daughters served delightful refreshments to the ladies
after the afternoon's work. The next meeting will be held on July 24th.
Afternoon tea will be served and a collection taken up.

ENDERBY
Mrs. P. W. Chapman of Vernon is visiting Enderby friends this week.
Dr. E. H. Crawford spent the week end in town motoring over from Kar-
loops.
Mr. C. Reeves came in from Revelstoke on Monday to visit his brother
A. Reeves.
Mrs. Harvey and family left for Victoria on Thursday last to stay for
two or three weeks.
The Enderby Orange Lodge and
friends to the number of about thirty
took the trip to Vernon on the 12th.
Mrs. E. R. Crane left for the coast
on Monday to be absent two or three weeks when she will return to take
up residence in Enderby.
Road Foreman Baxter is busy putting in a new bridge at Ashton Creek
to replace the old one washed out
in the heavy rain some two weeks
ago.
The past week end has been wet.
Sunday rain fell all day and again on Monday afternoon and evening putting
a stop to all work on the hay crop.
This end of the valley seems to have come in for more than its usual share
of moisture this season.

SPAIN IS ACTIVE IN GETTING ARMS
Ammunition Factories Working
Day and Night for Warfare.
Madrid, July 10.—The Spanish Government recently has been active in the preparation of military and naval armament. Artillery small arms and projectile factories are working night
and day and the Ministry of War is stirring himself to learning their capacity, has during the last several days
visited these at Traba, Oviedo, Gra-
nada and Seville.
Military and naval commissions have
left for the United States and Italy for
the purpose of acquiring arms and ammunition as well as the machinery
for their men.
There is talk also of the acquisition
by Spain of a number of submarines
and of large quantities of mines for
coast defense purposes.
All these activities are being conducted with the greatest secrecy, the Government having requested the press to maintain rigid silence on the subject. It is said that the motive behind these warlike preparations is by no means to enter the present European conflict on either side, but to strengthen Spain and to prepare her
for any event which may follow the
present war.

AN AWFUL END TO PICNIC PARTY
Fourteen Killed When Electric
Car Jumps Track at Queens-ton Heights.
Toronto, July 8.—Coming down the steep incline that leads to its sharp curve just outside Queenston, a car on the Niagara Falls Park and River Railway, which was crowded with people, suddenly and without warning from the Toronto Sunday School of Wood Green Methodist and St. John's Presbyterian Churches returning home after a day's picnicking, jumped the track and crashed against the trolley pole, and then tumbled turtle, last evening. The rear half of the car was completely wrecked, ten persons being killed outright. The car was closely packed and the number of injured is likely to be between 50 and 60. Many of them were hurled to Niagara Falls, but a number were brought to this city on a Niagara Line steamer. Of these four died during the trip across the lake, making a total of fourteen dead.

OFFER IS ACCEPTED
Union of South Africa Will Provide Contingent of Troops and Some Batteries of Artillery.
Cape Town, July 10. Official announcement was made today that the Imperial Government had "graciously accepted" the offer of the Government of the Union of South Africa to provide a contingent of troops to be raised in the Union and some of artillery.

Mrs. F. C. Manchester gave a pleasant "At Home" for Mrs. M. D. Manchester on last Wednesday afternoon.
The Misses Lois Wells, Gladys and
Kathleen Robinson assisted the hostess during the afternoon.
The Naramata Women's Institute
has changed its hour of meeting from
three o'clock to 7:30 p. m. during the summer months. After the regular business of the institute had been finished Mrs. Salting gave an interesting
paper on the "Canning of Vegetables."
Miss Lois Wells read the current events
for the month and Mrs. D. Walter
played a piano solo.
The large bright breakfast room at
Hotel Naramata was the scene of a
much cutting, tearing and sewing of
old linen on Saturday afternoon, about 25 ladies coming out to help in this
much needed work. Mrs. H. A. Solly, Summerland, who is at the head of the Red Cross work there was kind
enough to come across and explain all
the details of the work to be done,
which was much appreciated by the
ladies. During the afternoon the matter of forming a league here was taken
up and it was decided to join with the Summerland organization, the whole to
be called the Summerland-Naramata
Red Cross Ambulance League. Miss
Gwen Robinson was elected secretary-
treasurer of the Naramata branch.
The ladies will meet twice a month at
the club house on Saturday afternoons.
Mrs. Robinson and daughters served
delightful refreshments to the ladies
after the afternoon's work. The next meeting will be held on July 24th.
Afternoon tea will be served and a collection taken up.

ENDERBY
Mrs. P. W. Chapman of Vernon is visiting Enderby friends this week.
Dr. E. H. Crawford spent the week end in town motoring over from Kar-
loops.
Mr. C. Reeves came in from Revelstoke on Monday to visit his brother
A. Reeves.
Mrs. Harvey and family left for Victoria on Thursday last to stay for
two or three weeks.
The Enderby Orange Lodge and
friends to the number of about thirty
took the trip to Vernon on the 12th.
Mrs. E. R. Crane left for the coast
on Monday to be absent two or three
weeks when she will return to take
up residence in Enderby.
Road Foreman Baxter is busy putting in a new bridge at Ashton Creek
to replace the old one washed out
in the heavy rain some two weeks
ago.
The past week end has been wet.
Sunday rain fell all day and again on Monday afternoon and evening putting
a stop to all work on the hay crop.
This end of the valley seems to have
come in for more than its usual share
of moisture this season.

Ammunition Factories Working
Day and Night for Warfare.
Madrid, July 10.—The Spanish Government recently has been active in
the preparation of military and naval
armament. Artillery small arms and
projectile factories are working night
and day and the Ministry of War is
stirring himself to learning their capacity, has during the last several days
visited these at Traba, Oviedo, Gra-
nada and Seville.
Military and naval commissions have
left for the United States and Italy for
the purpose of acquiring arms and
ammunition as well as the machinery
for their men.
There is talk also of the acquisition
by Spain of a number of submarines
and of large quantities of mines for
coast defense purposes.
All these activities are being conducted with the greatest secrecy, the Government having requested the
press to maintain rigid silence on the subject. It is said that the motive behind these warlike preparations is by
no means to enter the present European conflict on either side, but to
strengthen Spain and to prepare her
for any event which may follow the
present war.
